

Making your own Krinkle Ribbon!!!!

You can do this fast and easy! I would recommend that you only make the ribbon a length that you will need because if it is cut it probably more then likely will un ravel on you. I wouldn't even bother to do this on my sewing machine because the time it would take you to set up your machine you would already be done!

This is simple and easy, all you are doing is making a *running stitch* through your ribbon! ie: "a small even stitch that runs in and out in cloth". In this instance ribbon.

Cut your ribbon to your desired length. This works best with 3/8" ribbon. Thread your needle. It is best to use *clear thread/string* Take your needle and go over and under over and under with your needle through your ribbon but do not pull your threaded needle through. You would save yourself sometime if you did it this way. After your needle is nearly full with your ribbon, then pull your needle through. repeat until done.

When you are done, gently pull your thread while you are pushing your ribbon down, you will see it start to take a krinkled effect. When you have it scrunched up to your liking just tie a knot with your thread and you are done.
